ASPEN

COMMUNITY LUNCHEON SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY

The Aspen Chamber Resort Association and the Aspen Skiing Co. will host the annual Community Luncheon atop Aspen Mountain on Friday.

The buffet luncheon will be held in the Sundeck restaurant starting at 11:30 a.m. The Silver Queen Gondola will take guests to the top of Ajax for the annual fall gathering. Ajax Tavern, The Cliffhouse, the Merry-Go-Round and Ullrhof are just a few of the restaurants that will be preparing culinary items for the buffet. Also, prizes will be raffled off to a handful of guests. Winners must be present to win.

Representatives of ACRA, the Skico, Stay Aspen Snowmass and the Denver Museum of Nature & Science will speak during the luncheon.

For those with season ski-pass vouchers, passes will be on sale after the luncheon. Passes must be purchased with a company check or credit card.

Tickets are $55 for ACRA members, $65 for non-members.

All tickets must be purchased through ACRA in advance and can be picked up at the gondola loading area on Friday. For more information, call ACRA at (970) 925-1940.

BREWSTER MCLEOD GARNERS TWO AWARDS

Architect Jamie L. Brewster McLeod recently was honored at the 2011 Roaring Fork Valley Parade of Homes with a first-place prize in the category of creative spaces and a third-place prize for best interior finishes for its work on a local residence. The single-family 10,000-square-foot home is located at the base of Aspen Highlands ski area and has access to adjacent slopes. The design boasts five bedrooms, eight fireplaces, a bar/pool table area, a custom media room, an exercise room, an office and a bunkroom with a small cabin feeling.

The residence was featured in a recent issue of Mountain Living Magazine. Brewster McLeod also is celebrating its honor from the magazine as the Top Mountain Architect for 2011. The firm has offices in Aspen and Telluride.

For more information, visit the website www.brewstermcLeod.com.

STUDIO B ARCHITECTS RECEIVES THREE AWARDS

Studio B Architects recently was honored at the Viceroy Hotel during the American Institute of Architects West Chapter design awards gala.

The Aspen company was named Firm of the Year for the Western Chapter of Colorado.

The firm also received a Citation design award for the Aspen Valley Fire Department headquarters and museum. It also garnered Merit design awards for both the Wrap House and the Edge House, both of which are in Aspen.

Studio B has garnered 45 AIA design awards and its work can be reviewed at www.studiobarchitects.net.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS

RANGE ROVER EVOQUE UNVEILED

Land Rover Roaring Fork is hosting an invitation-only Evoque Launch on Sept. 12 at the dealership in Glenwood Springs. This "cocktails and hors d'oeuvres" preview event will give potential customers time to explore the Evoque, ask questions, and schedule a test drive beginning the following day, Sept. 13.

To attend the Evoke Launch, please e-mail Land Rover Roaring Fork Centre Manager Vince Smith for an invitation at vsmith@LandRoverRoaringFork.com.

Smith is impressed with the Evoque, noting that it maintains Land Rover's traditional core values of providing premium levels of craftsmanship, luxury, performance and renowned Land Rover multi-terrain capability. The Evoque also incorporates features that will appeal to the modern consumer's concerns for a more sustainable vehicle. As the smallest, lightest Range Rover yet, it still delivers on advanced technology while reducing fuel consumption and CO2 emissions. "It's the most fuel-efficient Land Rover we've ever sold," Smith said.

Land Rover Roaring Fork is currently taking orders for the Evoque with delivery dates for their dealer inventory expected to arrive in October. They already have pre-sold several Evoques out of their initial inventory arriving soon. Customers have the option of customizing an Evoque to their exact specifications at www.landrover.com/us/en/rr/range-rover-evoque/build/.
